NADEEM & DARIYA · GREENWOOD RESORT

Signage Plan

Every sign the wedding needs, where it goes and how many to print. Direction signs come in left, right and straight-ahead versions; walk the route with the resort manager a few days before, decide the arrow at each spot, and tick the box when it is up.

One gate for all guests

How to keep everyone to one gate

- Choose the gate closest to the parking and the welcome desk as the Wedding Entrance. Put the large welcome board (02) on it, facing the road, with lights if possible.
- Ask Greenwood to keep the second gate closed to guests on both days, or to post a security guard there. Put sign 03 on it with the arrow pointing towards the Wedding Entrance.
- Place road signs (01) at every turn from Kanakapura Road, and one just before the second gate, so drivers go straight past it.
- Pin the Wedding Entrance location on Google Maps and send that pin to guests (instead of the resort's general pin) in the "See you tomorrow" message.
- Vendors and suppliers use the same gate, so the entry-pass check catches every crew member.

Printing

- Files are A3 and A2 at print quality. Any local flex or digital printer can enlarge them; the road and gate signs work best at 2 × 3 ft or larger.
- Outdoor signs (01–04, 31): flex or sunboard (5 mm) so they survive dew and wind.
- Indoor and path signs: 5 mm foam board, or A3 prints in plastic sleeves on easels.
- Order 2 spares of the Nikah, Reception and Dining arrows.

Putting them up

- Tuesday 19 January: road and gate signs (01–03), with the resort's permission.
- Wednesday by 11 AM: arrival signs, Day 1 directions, Day 1 programme board.
- Thursday by 8:30 AM: Nikah signs, unplugged Nikah, seating, Day 2 programme.
- Thursday by 4 PM: swap Haldi, Shukrana and DJ arrows for Reception arrows.
- Bring cable ties, double-sided tape, string, 6 easels and a few bamboo stakes. Take everything down on Thursday night.
